NEWS BRIEFS

4 Murdered In Idaho

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Three children, aged 12 to 15, and a woman were found murdered in Boise Sunday.

Sheriff's deputy Bud Koelling said he found a note near one of the bodies that read: "I've hurt them long enough." It was signed "Daddy."

Koelling said police were seeking Raymond A. Reason, 54. He said the bodies were found inside Reasons' house.

The deputy said that two of the children — girls—were found strangled and a boy apparently had been shot and brought to the house. The mother was beaten to death, he said.

Ike Gets State Tax Refund

HARRISBURG (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was one of 38,365 persons to receive refunds from Pennsylvania's gasoline tax in 1963, state records showed Sunday.

Eisenhower, a gentleman farmer, in Gettysburg, received $233 of the total $4,255,802 in refunds distributed.

State law allows the tax refunds on gasoline used for agricultural purposes or farm machinery used in the production of farm products. The tax is seven cents a gallon.

Mystery Plane Crash Studied

COOPERTON, Okla. (AP) — Air Force investigators worked in knee-deep mud Sunday trying to discovery why a C124 military transport plane exploded and crashed during a severe thunderstorm Saturday night, killing its six crew members.

Witnesses said the huge four-engine troop carrier, en route from Clovis, N. M., to Dover Air Force Base, Del., exploded in the air and fell to earth in flames.

2,000 MPH Plane Unveiled

PALMDALE, Calif. (AP) — The first 2,000 - mile - an - hour SB70A bomber, described variously as the world's most advanced heavy aircraft and as a billion - dollar disappointment, rolls out of its huge hangar Monday—more than a year behind schedule.

Sky Diver Dives To Death

LANCASTER, Calif. (AP)—A sky diver plunged to his death and his partner was injured Sunday in a parachute jumping accident.

Jack Smith, 27, Manhattan Beach, Calif., a veteran jumper and safety officer at the Antelope Valley Para Sports Center, was killed when both his main chute and his emergency chute failed to open, sheriff's deputies said.

Clark Backs LBJ In Javits Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Businessmen were "so scared of President Kennedy" that they were "in a mood to be wooed" politically by President Johnson, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said Sunday.

And besides, the senator added, he doesn't think businessmen believe Johnson really means what he says.

Javits, debating with Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., on a taped radio program, said he thinks a Republican presidential candidate who expressed "a dynamic American business philosophy" could get the backing of all kinds of businessmen.

Clark said Johnson has been pushing hard for government economies and "yet he has not deviated from the general policies of President Kennedy or the legislative program which President Kennedy wanted to put through."

Mothers Over 70 Feted

LEHIGHTON, Pa. (AP)— It's the most beautiful flower garden I ever saw," said Mrs. Reathle Hummel, 70, of Lehighton, as she arrived at the American legion hall for Dick Edwards' 22nd annual Mother's Day party.

Some 406 mothers, none under 70 and whose ages totaled 30,766 years, arrived at the hall for the party Saturday in chauffeur-driven cars and spent the afternoon dining and being entertained. The guests have a total of 6,636 descendants.

Edwards has given the party since 1939, except for a few war years, in memory of his own mother.

FBI Pinpoints Owner Of Pistol In Plane Wreckage

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — A heavily insured San Francisco warehouseman estranged from his wife owned the powerful magnum pistol found in wreckage of a Pacific Air Lines plane that crashed near Concord, killing all 44 aboard, say investigators.

FBI agents and Civil Aeronautics Board investigators continued Sunday their intensive secret probe of the crash.

Informed sources said Frank Gonzalez, 27, a member of the Philippines yachting crew in the 1960 Olympics, bought the .357 magnum pistol last Wednesday —just before he flew to Reno on one of his periodic visits to the gambling casinos.

Early Friday morning, the Pacific Airlines Fairchild F27, en route to San Francisco from Reno and only minutes from destination, crashed in the hilly ranch country south of Concord, killing the crew of three and 41 passengers.

Evidence of a sudden cockpit crisis immediately before the disaster was indicated in a tape recording played for newsmen. It contained a frantic, distorted section which seemed to quote the pilot as crying out: "I've been shot! I've been shot! Oh God, help!"

The tape-recorded radio communications were between the pilot, Capt. Ernest Clark, and the Oakland tower controller, who sensed that something had gone wrong when the transmission, garbled in spots, was abruptly broken off.

Tight-lipped FBI agents would not discuss their progress and Civil Aeronautics Board investigators at the crash scene would say little. They did reveal that the two turboprop engines, half buried at the crash crater, had not yet been dug up.

Nor, an investigator said, have they definitely established whether there was any malfunctioning of equipment on the plane.

The F27 exploded in impact, ripping the aircraft to bits and mangling bodies beyond recognition.

The bulky magnum pistol was found with wooden grips burned off, frame bent and all six loads fired. The hammer was cocked.

'Irregularities'

Blatt Backers Ready To Challenge Votes

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Genevieve Blatt's backers say they are convinced "there were many irregularities in the securing and casting of absentee votes" in Philadelphia and Scranton during the Pennsylvania primary election last April 28.

They said Saturday they were prepared to challenge many of the absentee ballots in both cities. Democratic organization strongholds which gave big majorities to state Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno in the contest for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator.

Miss Blatt, state secretary of internal affairs, held a lead of 3,338 votes over Musmanno Sunday as the counties continued to tally the official vote, including absentee ballots.

Miss Blatt's lead was based on official returns from 27 counties — 21 including the absentee count—and the unofficial tally from the rest of the state.

The winner will face incumbent Republican Hugh Scott in a bid for Scott's senate seat next November.

In Philadelphia, about 1,000 Democratic civilian absentee ballots are being held under police guard in City Hall to await tabulation. In Scranton, 1,750 Democratic civilian and military absentee ballots are yet to be counted. There are 1,456 untabulated civilian and military absentee ballots in Allegheny County (Pittsburgh), which also gave Musmanno a large majority.

Michael J. Byrne, coordinator of Miss Blatt's primary campaign, said lawyer volunteers have checked more than half the persons who voted by civilian absentee ballots in Philadelphia.

"As a result of this survey," said Byrne, "we are convinced there were many irregularities in the securing and casting of these absentee votes. The laws covering the use of such ballots is very specific. Our attorneys have gathered information indicating widespread violations of these requirements. We will produce this information at the proper time."

Byrne said he "found in Scranton and in other parts of Lackawanna County much the same conditions which we discovered in Philadelphia."

Clergy Influence

School Prayer Opponents Step Up Mail Barrage

WASHINGTON (AP)—A postage stamp will get you into one of the hottest arguments Capitol Hill has known—whether the Constitution should be amended to permit prayers in public schools.

Already hundreds of thousands of Americans have expressed their views and the issue has just begun to boil toward the legislative surface in hearings before the House Judiciary Committee.

The controversy has been building for two years and traces to a Supreme Court decision in June 1962 outlawing an official prayer prescribed for New York schools by the State Board of Regents.

Pennsylvania Law

It gained impetus a year later when the court struck down statutes in Maryland and Pennsylvania that required the schools to start the day with Bible reading.

Until the hearings began three weeks ago the mail pouring into congressional offices was overwhelmingly in favor of an amendment that would overturn the court's decisions. Some members reported the ratio as high as 100 to 1 and in no case was it less than 10 to 1.

Mail opposing an amendment picked up noticeably after a series of eminent church leaders urged the committee not to tamper with the First Amendment and said an amendment would amount to imposition of religion by majority rule.

Even With Backers

A spot check last week showed it running even with the pro-amendment mail in many offices, well ahead in some, and still trailing in others.

The volume is tremendous with the Judiciary Committee alone having received nearly 100,000 communications.

There has been a decided change also in the type and tone of mail since a public airing of the issue through the hearings.

The great bulk of the early support of an amendment was in the form of printed postcards generated by organizations set up for the purpose, such as the Constitutional Prayer Foundation, the Committee for Preservation of Prayer and Bible Reading in the Public Schools, Project America, Project Prayer, and others.

The early opposition mail was almost entirely handwritten and on an individual basis. Now cards and form letters are appearing in large numbers as some churches belatedly organize drives to offset the pro-amendment efforts.

Most mail supporting an amendment describes the issue as one of Christianity against atheism and there are many vitriolic attacks on the opponents.

An Akron, Ohio, preacher, Dr. Dallas F. Billington, urging a mail campaign by his listeners, had this to say in an April 12 radio sermon, copies of which were sent to members of Congress:

"Now we have no right to go out and take a gun and kill her (the Baltimore atheist who brought one of the Supreme Court Bible-reading suits) but we can sure pray for God to kill her. Pray earnestly, not just a mockery prayer, pray earnestly to God every day and every night that God will kill her."

C Of C Urges Park Fees

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Senate Forests and Waters Committee opens public hearings Monday on Project 70, amid new efforts to establish admission charges at state parks.

At the same time, both the House and Senate return for what looks like a long work week to consider the administration's $1.067 billion general fund budget and some $58 million in proposed appropriations for state aided colleges and institutions.

But Project 70, the state's $70 million recreation and land reclamation program, is expected to take the legislative spotlight.

The Chamber of Commerce announced plans over the weekend to propose at least four major revisions to the enabling legislation for Project 70.

One of the proposals is the establishment of admission charges at all state parks set up under the program.

Admission charges and user fees for swimming, picnic pavilions, observation towers and scenic sites on state owned land has long been a topic of controversy in Pennsylvania.

The state chamber feels such charges would help offset the cost of park expansion Project 70, making it at least partially self-sustaining.

But Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, secretary of forests and waters and chief architect of the program, rejects the idea.

"The broad economic and social benefits of our park system justifies the small subsidization the state gives them," he argues.

Backing the chamber are the Pennsylvania School Board Association, the State Grange and the Pennsylvania Farmer's Association.

Sen. Zehnder H. Confair, R-Lycoming, chairman of the senate forests and waters committee, says he expects a large number of amendments to be proposed before Project 70 reaches a legislative showdown.

The program was authorized by the voters in a special referendum last November. Now the legislature must set down the ground rules for borrowing and spending the money.

Besides admission charges, the chamber of Commerce also plans to urge adoption of these revisions:

—Creating in-lieu-of-tax payments to local governments for real estate removed from their tax rolls under the program.

—Encouraging private enterprise to share in the planning, development and operation of natural resources if it does not permanently or materially destroy the recreational value.

No final action is expected on Project 70 until the Scranton Administration's proposed eminent domain bill comes from the House. This will liberalize payments for land taken over by the state.

This is expected to soften opposition from agriculture. But the Grange is reported to favor creation of a special commission to direct project 70 land resources.

The Scranton Administration's general fund budget for fiscal 1964-65 was filed with the chief clerk of the House last week, trimmed some $588,000 from its original form.

Egyptians Go Wild For Nikita

CAIRO (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev received the cheers of 100,000 Egyptians on Sunday night at a giant youth rally organized in his honor.

From the field of the vast Cairo Bowl, one of the world's largest, thousands of Egyptian youths chanted a high-pitched welcome in well-coached Russian.

Khrushchev gave them a rousing anti-Western, anti-imperialist speech. The youths, waving flowing banners, performed gymnastics and intricate marching routines in a special tribute prepared for the Soviet leader.

Towering portraits of Khrushchev and Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser, bathed by floodlights, dominated the stadium from high above the presidential box.

The state television and radio networks broadcast the spectacle.

The Soviet premier told the cheering crowd that bitter battles lie ahead to free Africa from colonialist domination. He called for a united front of anti-colonialist forces and the Socialist states.

Railroad Walkouts Cease

The latest of a skipping pattern of railroad walkouts appeared ended Sunday night as increased numbers of trainmen reported for duty at the Chicago switching yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad following a back-to-work injunction.

"The work stoppage is definitely over," a Pennsylvania Railroad spokesman said. three-fourths of the night yard crews had reported for work.

Almost the entire work force — about 120 men had called in to report sick Saturday night and Sunday. The Pennsylvania management obtained the injunction in U.S. District Court after branding thte rash of sick calls a wildcat walkout.

The Pennsylvania walkout followed a 7-hour, 20-minute strike Sunday against the New York Central in Mattoon, Ill. The men returned to work at 2:20 p.m.

Martin Luther King

Negroes Aim At Alabama

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. said Sunday that massive demonstrations will be launched in Alabama by early June in a major assault against segregation in public places and restrictions on Negro voting.

He spoke of the likelihood of some type of strong action—he didn't call it a demonstration—in Washington, too, this summer if what he called efforts to weaken the pending civil rights bill continue.

And he said there is a real possibility of a civil rights march on political conventions of both the Republican and Democratic parties, in July and August respectively, to influence them to take a strong civil rights stand.

Interviewed on the CBS radio and television program "Face the Nation," King said if the election were held today President Johnson would carry the South overwhelmingly over any Republican candidate.

Raps Red Charges

He emphatically rejected allegations that Communists have infiltrated the civil rights movement.

King heads the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. He said the federal government had informed him of only one Communist in that organization and he was promptly removed.

The Negro leader said of his summer plans: "We definitely plan to have massive demonstrations in the State of Alabama. I feel the time has come for a full-scale assault on segregation this summer in several Alabama communities. We are now recruiting students."

King said the demonstrations would begin late this month or early in June "after school is out." He did not say what communities would be chosen.

He expressed alarm over closed conferences now under way on amendments to the House-passed civil rights bill proposed by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader.

Barry Grabs 23 More 1st Ballot Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona picked up 23 more first-ballot votes at state conventions this weekend as the number of delegates to the Republican presidential nominating convention passed the halfway mark.

An Associated Press survey of the 701 delegates now chosen shows Goldwater with 266 first-ballot votes.

The remainder are lined up this way: 43 for Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, 7 for former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, 4 for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, 63 for Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, 108 for favorite-son candidates and 210 uncommitted or who have not stated a choice.

Although Rockefeller has only four delegates at this time, he is expected to capture most of the 92 delegates in his home state primary June 2 and also could pick up 86 more with a victory in the California primary the same day.

Goldwater's headquarters has claimed the senator will have 459 of the 655 needed for the nomination, not counting the 86 he could gain by winning in California.

Goldwater added 23 delegates in Missouri, Virginia and Wyoming last Saturday.

Republicans will chose at least 61 more delegates this week, including 18 in the important Oregon presidential preference primary election Friday.

Delegates also will be selected in primaries in Nebraska and West Virginia on Tuesday and conventions in Rhode Island on Monday and Vermont on Saturday.

U.S. Likes Poland's Trade Plan

GENEVA (AP)—A way to increase business with the Soviet bloc may be emerging from the round of trade talks that President John F. Kennedy inspired.

Red Poland has come up with a proposal that won a warm welcome from the private enterprise countries, including the United states. It provides Polish participation in the Kennedy round and Polish membership in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade GATT.

The Polish proposal introduces an entirely new idea: Instead of lowering tariffs, which have little meaning in a state-Trading Communist economy, Poland will guarantee to take fixed amounts of imports from the non-Communist world.

In return, the private enterprise countries would give Poland the full benefit of trade advantages they give to one another. This would include the 50 per cent cut in tariffs envisaged by President Kennedy, or whatever percentage is finally agreed on. It would also eliminate many quotas set up by Western countries to limit their imports from Poland.

Good Morning!

If a man can't break 85, he has no business on the golf course; if he can break 85, he probably has no business.

Plot Foiled

McNamara: Red Target

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —Three Viet Cong agents were seized Saturday night as they tried to mine a bridge that U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara was due to cross on his arrival Tuesday. Reliable sources said they confessed to a Communist plot to kill McNamara.

A fourth man described as the leader managed to escape in the plot which would have endangered also the life of U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, the sources added.

McNamara was in West Germany on Sunday prior to another visit to South Viet Nam and conferences on how to make more effective the military action against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas being waged by South Viet Nam with powerful U. S. support.

He is making the trip at a time of increasing anti-U. S. activity by Viet Cong terrorists. In recent days they have sunk the aircraft ferry Card in the Saigon River and hurled a homemade grenade into a group of strolling Americans, wounding eight. U. S. schools, commissaries, military and diplomatic installations remain under heavy security guard.

The informants gave these details on the reported plot against McNamara: The bridge is situated near the airport where McNamara is due to arrive. It is on the main road leading from the airport to Saigon. Normally, Lodge would ride in the same car with McNamara from the airport.

About 10 p.m. Saturday a Vietnamese policeman on duty at the bridge spotted an underwater swimmer. He arrested the man and called for reinforcements.

A 150-yard length of wire was discovered trailing out of a nearby public lavatory. Police found a second Viet Cong agent huddled inside. A third was picked up in the area soon afterward.

The wire was being laid from the lavatory to the bridge. After an all-night interrogation police returned to the scene and found a 50-pound explosive charge in an old kerosene can buried in the mudbank of the river under heavy undergrowth.

The leader was to have stationed himself in the lavatory which commands a view of the bridge. He was to have set off the charge when the McNamara motorcade crossed.

Hanoi Warns U.S. Not To Attack

MOSCOW (AP)—Ho Chi Minh says it would be sheer stupidity for the United States and South Viet Nam to carry the war against his Communist Viet Cong forces into the north.

The president of North Viet Nam made the statement in an interview in mid-April in Hanoi with Wilfred S. Burchett, a Communist - orientated, Australian-born newspaperman who works now in Moscow. The interview was made available after his return to the Soviet capital.

On other aspects of the Viet Nam situation, Ho said that French President Charles de Gaulle's proposals for neutralization of that area of Southeast Asia deserved attention, but that withdrawal of all U. S. forces and arms from South Viet Nam was a prior condition for restoring peace.

Ho, the aging veteran Asian Communist revolutionary who will be 74 on May 19, compared the U. S. position in Viet Nam with a fox "who has already got his two hind legs caught in a trap, and by still trying to jump around is doing his best to get his front legs caught as well."

Asked about reports that the United States and Gen. Nguyen Khanh, strong man premier of South Viet Nam, were considering pushing the war into the north, Ho said: "To put forth such a plan is one thing but to carry it out is quite another. Perhaps Nguyen Khanh and his U. S. patrols should be more modest in their adventurous plans.

"How can they talk about marching to the north when they cannot even control areas in the immediate vicinity of Saigon? This is sheer stupidity."

He said also that North Viet Nam "has powerful friends ready to help" in event of such action an apparent reference to Communist China.

Baby Cries Echo Where Five Died

TACOMA, Wash (AP) The silence of the McKenzie house, where once five active youngsters romped, was broken Sunday by the demanding cry of a baby.

The sound was the happiest Monte and Rita McKenzie had heard since four of their children were swept away in a tidal wave created by the Alaska earthquake of March 27. Their oldest child, Susanne, 9, died in a campfire tragedy last August.

Sunday, Kelly Scott McKenzie, a 7-pound boy born early this month, was starting to fill the void left by the deaths of the other children.

"We hope to adopt four more in time," said McKenzie, 33, an industrial engineer, "or eight, or nine."

The McKenzies had been sleeping on the beach at Depoe Bay, Ore., when the killer wave engulfed them. Monte was unhurt, but Rita, 29, suffered cuts and bruises. And the children, Louis, 8, Robert, 7, Richard, 6, and Tammy, 3, were gone.

Soon after the tragedy, McKenzie announced the couple's plans to adopt a family.

"We know somewhere there are children who need us as much as we need them," he said.

Nude Reporter Gets News; Covers Uncovered Wedding

EDITORS NOTE—A sailor and a 16-year-old brunette were married Saturday at a nudist camp. In order to cover the wedding, reporters had to undress and attend nude, as did 200 invited guests. One of the reporters was Marian Dale, a 5-foot-6 brunette reporter for the Fort Lauderdale News. Here is Marian's story.

By MARIAN DALE
Fort Lauderdale News Reporter

DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (AP) I've been to a nudist camp once before, but I didn't undress and there were no nudists around so it really doesn't matter. This was different.

They'll tell you first off you get used to it—being naked I mean. So who gets used to attending a wedding in insect repellent and sunglasses?

They told me when I took the assignment—attending the wedding of nudists Sissy Sawson, 16, and Charles Morrow, 23—that the thing, meaning the time I had to be nude, would be about five minutes. There were 200 guests and we were there an hour.

And I'm still not used to it.

We were met at a guarded gate by one of the visiting wedding guests—a man in shorts. He asked for identification, then we all drove inside to a parking lot.

He took off his shorts right away and told us to undress before we went on inside.

I didn't know what to take off first. Anyway, this man came around the side of the car and talked to me. He didn't seem at all concerned. I was. I just kept looking straight in his eyes and talking like mad.

I put on my sunglasses—they're allowed—and we went inside.

I had to concentrate hard on talking to people. After all, you have to concentrate on something. I learned to recognize people by their hair, sunglasses and their eyes.

One little old man seemed to be following me around and I saw a couple of guys watching now and then, but everyone was well behaved.

We — including Don Meitin, Pompano Beach Sun-Sentinel—obviously didn't belong. Everyone had beautiful tans. Our tans gave us away.

Someone should have thought to take suntan oil. I'm burned. The flies bothered us and everyone wore insect repellent.

Otherwise, not having clothes didn't bother us physically. We were so busy trying to get information for a story, I forgot—temporarily—I was nude.

There were people of all ages - children, teen-agers, men and women from their 20s to 80s. Some wore sunglasses and hats. That's all. Many were barefoot. They were all uninhibited and all interested in our reaction. They wanted to know how it felt to be nude the first time.

We went back to the parking lot, got our clothes out and put them on and Don said, "Boy, you look good in clothes."

I believe it. Clothes are here to stay.

State News Roundup

Morse Belittles Seranton Vote

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Democratic State Chairman Otis B. Morse contended over the weekend that the driver to get a large write-in vote for Gov. William W. Scranton in the present Pennsylvania presidential preference primary "fell flat."

Commenting on Scranton's news conference statement that he felt he could run on a national ticket with any of the Republican candidates for president or vice president, Morse said:

"With the harsh statistics of the Scranton write-in drive showing that Mr. Scranton actually received less than one-quarter of the total Republican primary vote in Pennsylvania, he apparently decided to give his phony draft statement a new twist.

"What it really means is that he is now ready and willing to take anything he can get."

Fineman Seeks Minority Post

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Rep. Herbert Fineman, D-Philadelphia, has become a formal contender for the post of House minority whip vacated by last week's death of Rep. James J. Dougherty, also of Philadelphia.

Fineman, 43, is noted for his fiery oratory during legislative debates. An attorney, he has been in the House since 1955, and he held chairmanships of two committees when the Democrats held chamber control.

Another Philadelphian, Rep. Joshua Eilberg, head of the city's 36 - member House delegation, also may seek the leadership post. He served as acting whip when Dougherty had to leave the job because of illness three years ago.

GOP Delegates Meet May 22

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Pennsylvania's 64 - vote delegation to the Republican National Convention will hold its organization meeting in Philadelphia May 22 and the GOP State Committee will reorganize the following day.

The twin meetings at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel are expected to draw virtually all top Republicans in the state.

The 64 delegates and like number of alternates probably will elect Gov. William W. Scranton as chairman and designate him "favorite son" for president at their meeting starting at 10 a.m.

On the afternoon of May 23 the 113-member state committee will choose a new chairman, secretary and treasurer for the next two years.

Other events include a "Party for Patriots" at 6 p.m. near Valley Forge on May 22 and an 8 a.m. breakfast the following day at the hotel hosted by Scranton. The party, costing $10 a head, will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Neff Ewing on Pickering St.

Bushkill Lake Claims Boy

EASTON, Pa. (UPI) -- A 10-year-old Phillipsburg, N.J. boy was drowned Saturday while swimming with a companion in Bushkill lake here.

The body of Robert Frankenfeld was recovered by divers of the Phillipsburg emergency squad in about 15 feet of water about a half hour after he disappeared.

Seranton Hits Coal Plan

HARRISBURG (UPI) -- Gov. William W. Scranton has complained that the coal area restoration proposals incorporated in President Johnson's Appalachian program "miss the point" of Pennsylvania's needs.

In a weekend memorandum to the President Scranton called for more freedom for states in handling federal funds, and elimination of the requirements that states match federal money on each project.

Johnson agreed to put more emphasis on tackling the problems caused by coal mining following a White House meeting with Scranton, and submitted amendments to the Appalachian project to Congress.

However, Scranton maintained the amendments may foster "red tape and delay" because of conflicting jurisdiction among federal agencies, the matching fund requirement and the failure to allow direct state action.

Harris Poll

Lodge Glows In Ore.; Barry Dims

The Oregon Republican Presidential primary coming up this Friday mirrors almost exactly the feelings of rank-and-file GOP voters across the nation as to who should be their 1964 standard - bearer: Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Louis Harris
'Pollster'

—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge continues to hold a strong lead over the rest of the field as the campaign enters the final week. He is the choice of 40 per cent of Oregon Republicans in a six-candidate field.

—Sen. Barry Goldwater, with a wide and growing lead in delegate strength, seems destined to receive his severest set-back in Oregon, where he is running fourth with only 14 per cent of the estimated vote. What is more, 36 per cent of these Republisans say they could not vote for the Arizona senator even if he were nominated by their party next July in San Francisco.

—Richard M. Nixon shows definite signs of gaining favor among rank-and - file voters. over-all reaction to the former Vice President has moved from 57-43 per cent positive in Oregon three weeks ago to 65-35 per cent positive today.

—Nixon could well be moving into a strategic position should the front - runners falter at the GOP convention.

—Gov. Nelson Rockefeller is showing signs of some upward movement in Oregon, partly at Lodge's and partly at Goldwater's expense. The divorce issue has lessened some in intensity lately (down from a high 52 per cent to 43 per cent who say they are concerned over the marital issue). Rockefeller is scoring well in the city and suburban areas of the state, but remains weak up to now among people in small towns and on farms.

—Oregon marks the first contest in which Lodge has been under attack from his Republican opponents. The campaing there has taken some toll among his supporters. The number who feel he should come home to campaign has jumped from 19 to 27 per cent, while the number who criticize him for having been a "lazy campaigner" in 1960 has risen from 5 to 14 per cent.

Approval of administration policy in Vietnam has shrunk to a bare one-third of Republicans interviewed in Oregon. For all of these new-found problems for the Lodge candidacy, the ambassador still remains far and away the most popular of all the candidates in this race.

—The results of the Oregon primary parallel remarkably the preference of Republicans across the nation. The comparison of this Oregon cross-section with a nation - wide cross - section of Republican voters:

Oregon GOP and National GOP Prefer as Nominee

	Oregon GOP Per Cent	Nation GOP Per Cent
Lodge	40	41
Nixon	22	30
Rockefeller	19	9
Goldwater	14	15
Seranton	3	3
Mrs. Smith	2	2

Lodge is running almost precisely as well in Oregon as in the nation. Nixon is stronger outside Oregon, while Rockefeller is weaker. Goldwater's Oregon showing is almost exactly his national strength.

The Arizona senator also meets with considerable negative reaction in Oregon. Here are the results when Oregon GOP voters are asked which candidates they could not vote for if nominated by their party:

Could Not Vote For

	May 11 Per Cent	April 13 Per Cent
Goldwater	36	31
Mrs. Smith	27	28
Rockefeller	25	27
Nixon	13	13
Seranton	7	5
Lodge	4	2

(NOTE: Some GOP voters felt that there was more than one candidate for whom they could not vote.)

What is more, for the first time in either national or state polls, Senator Goldwater meets with a negative over-all reaction from a cross-section of Oregon voters. Each voter was probed in depth about each candidate. When all the positive and negative comments are added up about the top four, this is the line-up:

Voter Reaction To Candidates

	Positive Per Cent	Negative Per Cent
Lodge	87	13
Nixon	65	35
Rockefeller	63	37
Goldwater	49	51

Lodge clearly wins the popularity contest here in Oregon. However, administration Vietnam policies (largely associated by voters with Lodge) meet with continued disapproval:

Vietnam Policy

	May 11 Per Cent	April 13 Per Cent
Approve	34	38
Disapprove	66	62

The last days of this campaign will provide a test of how well Lodge strength can hold up under attack from many fronts. Of course, in the final analysis, the delegate vote in San Francisco will determine the Republican nominee for President in 1964. By the same token, in modern political history, the front-runner in the public opinion polls has almost always ended up the nominee for President.

Judge Urges Rules To Speed Up Trials

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—New criminal procedural rules designed to modernize practices in criminal and magistrates courts and to speed trials have been approved by state trial judges.

Some 200 judges meeting in conference urged the Pennsylvania Supreme Court and Superior Courts to adopt the rules which have been under preparation for more than four years. They voted, after considerable debate and objection to some of the proposed revisions, to approve the proposed rules for submission to the Supreme Court.

The biggest issue that took up most of the three-hour discussion this weekend was a new provision requiring a criminal defendant to offer his alibi for the crime—if he has one—five days before he goes on trial.

This would enable the district attorney to check out his story and not be faced with surprise at the time of trial, according to the judges. If the alibi holds up, the man would be acquitted and no trial would be held.

The rules were explained by Judge Joseph Sloane of Philadelphia Common Pleas Court, chairman of the committee, and Judge Burton R. Laub of Erie County, vice chairman.

Chief justice John C. Bell of the State Supreme Court said he has very serious doubts that the alibi rule was constitutional. He said it would compel a defendant to testify against himself.

Bell said, however, he agrees with the rule "a trillion per cent," but it would be helpful to society if it is constitutional.

Clark Spurs Action On Tocks Park

WASHINGTON — Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D., Pa.) has renewed his request for action by the Senate Public Lands Subcommittee on the Tocks Island National Recreation Area.

In a letter released Saturday, Clark also urged subcommittee approval of long-pending measurers to authorize Federal acquisition of the Graff House site in downtown Philadelphia, where the Declaration of Independence was drafted, and development of a parking lot for Independence Hall National Historical Park.

"I know you appreciate how important these measurers are to my State, and in order that our orderly planning program may proceed on schedule, it is of some urgency that Congress act on them in the not-too-distant future," Clark wrote.

The Tocks Island bill would create a Federal Park around the 30-mile lake that will be created with the completion of the dam scheduled for construction six miles above Delaware Water Gap on the upper Delaware River.

The Graff House Bill, passed by the House in December, would authorize a $200,000 Federal purchase of the property on the southwest corner of 7th and Market sts., where Thomas Jefferson stayed while drafting the Declaration in 1776.

The parking lot bill would authorize $1.18 million for site acquisition, and $380,000 for improvements in development of offstreet parking for 220 cars and 20 buses in most of the block bounded by Chestnut, Walnut, 2d and Front sts.

Hearings on the Tocks Island bill originally had been planned in March but were canceled because of the impending civil rights filibuster. Clark renewed his request for action when he learned the subcommittee was acting on other measures despite the talkathon.

Philly Youth Shot Dead

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — David Meginley, 16, was shot fatally late Saturday night by a gang of hoodlums who stopped him and a companion on the street near his home.

Police said the boy and his unidentified companion were walking on the sidewalk when a gang of five Negroes and one white boy stopped them. Neighbors sitting on their front steps heard them exchange words briefly and then the report of two shots.

Meginley, a 6-foot-3, 216 pound white boy, fell to the sidewalk with bullet wounds in his head and chest. His companion fled as did the assailants.

Pocono, Jackson Schoolmen Change Vote, Accept Budget

SWIFTWATER — In a dramatic reversal, school boards in Pocono and Jackson Townships formally approved a Pocono Mountain Joint School District budget of $1,210,000 for the 1964-65 school year.

Both boards vigorously protested and voted against adopting the budget April 30 at a meeting of school directors from the eight townships making up the joint district.

Joining Pocono and Jackson in formally approving the budget are school boards in Coolbaugh, Tobyhanna, Tunkhannock and Paradise Townships and the borough of Mt. Pocono.

The Barrett Township school board will meet Tuesday night and formal approval is expected.

Jackson Reversal

Jackson voted 3-2 to adopt a resolution approving the joint budget after voting 3-2 against adoption at the April 30 meeting.

George Prosser was the deciding factor in Jackson's budget acceptance. On April 30 he voted against the budget but at a township board meeting last Wednesday voted to approve Jackson's participation in the joint budget.

Directors from Pocono Township, who voted 4-1 to reject the budget April 30, had a complete reversal of form at a board meeting last Wednesday night and voted 4-1 to accept the budget.

John Montgomery, board president, who has been vocal in his opposition to the joint budget, was the only Pocono director casting a no vote.

The individual township school budgets are in the following positions:

Jackson

—Jackson. Howard Hartshorn, board president, said last night he will call a special meeting in 10 days to have the board vote on approving a proposed budget of $139,291.

He said he expected the tax rate to remain at $51 on every $1,000 of assessed real estate and a $10 per capita tax. "Our millage might go up one mill but it is very doubtful at this time," he said.

While the Jackson budget is incomplete at this point, Hartshorn listed the following expenditures:

Payments to the joint district, $123,131; joint authority rental payments, $9,492; capital outlay, $3,668, and local administration, $3,000.

After approval the budget will be open for public inspection for 30 days at the Jackson school in Reeders.

Pocono

—Pocono. The township budget has been tentatively approved and is being readied for public inspection and no final figures are available. Floyd Hay of Tannersville said the budget will be ready Tuesday and will be posted in his home. The real estate millage has been raised one mill to 34.

Tunkhannock

—Tunkhannock. The board has approved a $51,134 budget. Mrs. Charlotte Davenport, board secretary, said the tax rate will remain the same as last year's $48 on every $1,000 and $15 per capita.

She listed revenue sources as local real estate taxes, $33,000; per capita, $2,231 and state and federal aid, $12,000. Expenditures: payment to the joint district, $36,822, authority rental payments, $4,603, and local administration, $2,600.

The budget will be on display at Mrs. Davenport's home at Fern Ridge in Blakeslee.

Paradise

—Paradise. A $137,142 budget has been approved which will raise taxes one mill to $31 on every $1,000 plus a $10 per capita.

David Neison, board, secretary listed the following revenue sources:

Real estate taxes, $100,844; per capita taxes, $7,340; state aid, $15,167, and federal aid to impacted areas, $7,500.

Expenditures: payment to the joint district, $114,025; authority rental payments, $18,883, and local administration, $3,500. The budget will be posted in the Paradise Community Building.

Coolbaugh

—Coolbaugh. The budget will be presented to the board at a meeting Tuesday night. It is expected the 38 mill real estate tax and $10 per capita tax will remain the same, according to Lawrence Reitz, board secretary.

Tobyhanna

—Tobyhanna. The budget has been approved and is being readied for public inspection and no final figures were available. The budget includes a one mill tax increase to $38 on every $1,000, according to Harvey E. Keiper, board member.

Mt. Pocono Borough

—Mt. Pocono. The board was able to drop the real estate tax one mill to $32 on every $1,000 while approving a $102,486 budget.

Bernard Pallo, board secretary, listed these revenue sources: real estate taxes, $72,295; $5 per capita tax, $2,349; state aid, $7,336; federal aid, $7,461, and a starting bank balance of $7,251.

Expenditures: payments to the joint district, $81,308; authority rental payments, $16,287; local administration, $4,590, and fixed charges, $300.

The budget will be posted for 30 days at Pallo's home at 5 Oak St., Mt. Pocono.

Barrett

—Barrett. Dr. Edmund Magann, board president, said the budget will be approved at a meeting Tuesday night. He said at this point he could not predict firm budget figures.

Christian Visits, Talks To Adventists

STROUDSBURG — The spindrift of one of the modern world's most enduring legends washed into Stroudsburg Friday night -- in the form of Parkin Christian of Pitcairn Island, the great-great - grandson of Fletcher Christian who led the mutiny on the "Bounty" in 1789.

A towering figure, white-haired and broad - shouldered with the look of the rolling seas about him, Christian came here to tell the story of his island at the Stroudsburg Seventh-day Adventist school. He is 80 years old.

Stroudsburg area residents were there to hear his story and to see pictures of life on the island. Pastor Bruce Fox conducted the meeting.

Christian has been in the United States since last October. He has had a busy round of speaking engagements, trying to interest people in his faraway home that came into the spotlight of history when the Bounty mutineers arrived at the island Jan. 23, 1790.

Christian speaks a melodious English with overtones of Polynesian and 18th century English salted with seafaring terms.

Last Tuesday afternoon he appeared at the New York World's Fair where he met a descendent of Captain Bligh. On the deck of the reconstructed Bounty they shook hands and "buried the hatchet."

Oiljak Union Rejects Company Offer, 26-25

STROUDSBURG — By the razor-thin margin of 26-25, striking union employees at Oiljak Manufacturing Co., Inc., voted to reject a company offer of a three-year contract with hourly wage increases.

The vote was taken Saturday morning. Sixty-five members of Local 6209 of the United Steelworkers of America have been striking the company since April 30.

At a meeting Saturday afternoon, union members unanimously voted to ask the company for a two-year contract calling for a three-cent hourly wage increase the first year and five cents an hour the second, according to James Adams, local president.

Adams said the union's offer includes a wage re-opener clause at the end of the second year. This would allow the union to negotiate for another contract at the end of two years.

The local's president said he had been unable to present the offer to company officials over the weekend. He said he will be in contact with management this morning.

Atty. Harry Lee, head of the company's negotiating team, said last night no further negotiations have been scheduled.

The company last offered a three-year pact calling for a three-cent hourly wage boost the first year and five-cent increases during the second and third years, plus $500 additional life insurance, Lee said.

The company's first offer was for a three-year contract with a two-cent increase the first year, three the second and four the third. The next offer included two, four and five-cent increases spread over three years.

Oiljak has been resisting the inclusion of a wage reopener clause in its contract with the union.

The union's counter offers were 10-cent increases spread over a three-year period and then two, five and five-cent increases over the same period.

Adams said last night the members' vote to offer management their latest offer gives the union's negotiating committee the power to sign a contract if Oiljak accepts the latest offer.

He said all union workers will be at the plant this morning because they don't know whether or not their offer was accepted.

School Plan Appeals

"We will gather our appeals where they fall."

That was the comment of David Hutchinson of Price Township after the five-man Monroe County school board voted 3 to 2 on April 23 for a four-district plan of county school reorganization.

Hutchinson had cast the deciding vote for four districts.

Two county board members were solidly for four districts and two were solidly for reorganization of 18 individual township school boards and Stroud Union school board into a single county unit.

Now the appeals are beginning to fall.

Eldred Township School Board said before the vote that it would appeal its inclusion in a four-district plan. Eldred wants to join the Palmerton school district in Carbon County.

Last week East Stroudsburg Borough School Board voted 6 to 1 to file an appeal when the four-district reorganization plan goes to Harrisburg this month. The board favors one county school district.

Some people have not taken the Eldred Township appeal too seriously because they thought one small voice would not be allowed to upset a county-wide plan.

But the East Stroudsburg Borough action is a far more serious matter. East Stroudsburg Borough is the largest single school district in Monroe County outside Stroud Union — a union of four former districts.

It speaks for about 15 per cent of the population of Monroe County and cannot be brushed aside here or in Harrisburg without serious consideration of its views.

Six other school districts also favored a single county school unit plan and may also file appeals by the May 23 deadline.

School reorganization officials in Harrisburg have told this newspaper repeatedly that they favor a single county school district in Monroe County.

They are in a position to influence the final decision of the State Board of Education, and will no doubt make a strong case for a single county school district.

It is clear that the battle for school reorganization in Monroe County has only begun.

Johnson's Southern Stand

President Johnson went to the heart of the South last week and pleaded for his civil rights bill, justice among the races, and an end to discrimination.

He talked to some Negroes about their problems and talked to the leaders of the Southern white community of Atlanta, Georgia, about solving those problems.

It took some personal and political courage to speak so clearly to Southerners about this unpopular and politically dangerous subject.

But the President did not mince any words:

"Justice — justice also means justice among the races. Racial problems have deep roots in Southern soil."

His speech in Atlanta to an audience that included members of the Georgia legislature was particularly significant because it was his first speech in the deep South since he became President and it was the first time he came out strongly for his civil rights program before a purely Southern audience.

He was not greeted with cheers. Atlanta crowds liked his continuous attacks on poverty much better.

But the President did himself and the nation a great service.

He first purged himself of the taint of Southern softness on civil rights — something that liberal Democrats feared to find in the President and Republicans hoped to find and criticize.

He then made it clear that racial conflict is not just a Southern problem:

"Racial problems . . . trouble the passions of men on the shores of Maryland also, and I would remind you, in the slums of Philadelphia and in the dark streets of New York."

It is one thing for the President to fight for his civil rights bill in Washington. It is another and far more difficult task for him to speak for the same national cause in Georgia.

Comment Of The Day

"As I am President of all the people, you are part of all the people. I speak to you not, therefore, as Georgians or as Southerners, but as Americans . . .

"I believe Georgia will join with the entire nation to ensure that every man enjoys all the rights secured him by that American Constitution.

"Because the Constitution requires it, because justice demands it, we must protect the constitutional rights of all of our citizens regardless of race, religion or the color of their skin."

— President Lyndon B. Johnson, speaking in Atlanta, Georgia.

WASHINGTON — President Lyndon B. Johnson has now held press conferences almost everywhere except in Lincoln's bed and underwater, where we could use our underwater pens.

His latest was on the White House lawn, with the wives and children of correspondents in attendance.

This "Fun for the Whole Family" press conference was infinitely more folksy than the one he held at his Texas ranch on bales of hay and less nerve-wracking than the one he held in an auto at 90 miles an hour. It was nowhere near as exhausting as the one he held while doing seven laps about the White House grounds, stopping only now and then to earlift beagles.

The picnic press conference made clear something that many of us had begun to suspect — that White House press conferences really are geared to the kiddies. In fact, there is now a vocal school of thought that contends they are pitched only for the very immature, and that adults should be rigidly excluded.

Preparations for the outing were hectic. Many Washington social secretaries have debilitated their bosses, but President Johnson threatens to be the first to reverse the process.

The White House social director is the beautiful Bess Abell, "Poor Bess," as she is known, was already at the point of a nervous breakdown when LBJ gave her a day's notice to arrange the family news seminar.

Poor Bess had just finished sweeping out 800 foreign students, and was getting ready for 100 Senate wives, who were to be nurtured on 13 sets of China from 13 Presidential Administrations, and a Helen Hayes performance. Mrs. Abell was not in the best fettle for the children's half hour.

To promote her from a wreck to a catastrophe she began to get calls from wives of correspondents inquiring what they should wear to a news-dispensing garden party. Mrs. Abell had to fight down the impulse to tell them to come in sackcloth for the sack race.

Then she began to receive calls from wags at the National Press Club bar. It is perhaps wisest, seeing that kiddies are involved, to skip details of these calls except to remark that they started out ribald, and grew worse.

The women and children, however, really did something for the Executive Mansion when they arrived. They went tiptoe through the tulips. Of course, this doesn't do much for tulips except hash them with tiptoe prints, but gave everybody a warm feeling, especially the White House gardeners.

Some of the children turned out to be too young, even for LBJ press conferences. It was deemed expedient to keep them indoors. A number of the President's stuffiest advisers were drafted as babysitters. It's a mercy Prof. Schlesinger is gone. I don't think he could have taken it.

There wasn't exactly a blast of trumpets, but it seemed like it when the President made his grand family entrance. The stage was a shell for band concerts, and please omit quips about shell games. The shell was under a chestnut tree, but this is believed to have no significance.

It was the first time my tonsure was ever sunburned at a Presidential news conference. There was nothing, however, to mar the gaiety of the occasion for the little ones.

The tiny tots went wild over the statistics on the business upturn. When President Johnson urged them to pay closer attention to U.S.-Panama relations, they could hardly contain themselves. In fact, a number spilled over.

It was touching. A touched in the head father was moved to predict:

"Next press conference he'll juggle eight Indian clubs."

The Pennsylvania Story

Project 70 Hearings

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — One of the more interesting hearings of the "season" (legislative season, that is) opens on Capitol Hill today as pro and con arguments are heard on the issue of "Project 70".

"Project 70" is not a piece of legislation designed to force retirement of all able-bodied males and females at age 70, although there are those actually under the impression this is what is involved in "Project 70"!

Nor is "Project 70" Pennsylvania's effort to land a Pennsylvania - born and bred hare on the moon by that date.

Rather, it is a project ("program" seemingly would be more appropriately descriptive) that in one way or another will affect virtually every resident of the Keystone State (plus those who aren't here yet but will help pay the tab in the years to come).

In a way it is a curious project; one that has opponents considerably riled, but proponents are riled even more—all of which provides much of the human interest aroma embroiled in movement of the now-pending legislation.

In a bit of a nutshell, "Project 70" in its present form is an authorization via implementing legislation (now under consideration) to borrow some $70,000,000 for the acquisition and development of lands for recreation, conservation and historical purposes throughout Penn's Woods (and fields).

The idea was approved by the people of the State in a special referendum last fall —but the approval (interestingly) came predominantly from urban, metropolitan areas of the state, with most of the rural counties voting down the idea! This perhaps was not without some good reason for it is in the rural areas that the land will be acquired for "Project 70"—thus providing these areas with a touch of close-to-home land-snatching.

Urbanites in using the land once it is developed will be the ones directly benefiting from this land - plucking development program in the rurals.

Or — will they really be the ones to benefit? This is perhaps the key to the whole question.

While it is true the land will come from the rural areas of the State, it will be urbanites, plus surrounding rural folks too, who will use these areas.

For these rural areas this means an influx of people; people (today) mean spending; spending means economic growth; economic growth means an assist in reaching economic happiness.

Thus in actuality — from a theoretical socio - economic standpoint — the very areas where segments of "Project 70" will be plunked down stand to benefit most in the end!

The idea behind "Project 70" is not to acquire the prime land areas of the State but rather to develop the marginal, somewhat "scrubby" areas into something approaching productive areas and still provide the "space" needed for parks, recreational areas, etc., which now are fast disappearing.

Of course there are those rural residents whose lands will be gobbled as the land acquisition program moves ahead to make "Project 70" a reality — but there is this thought to bear in mind:

Whether for right or wrong, he general concept today is that "individualism" must give way to "progress" (a term somewhat difficult to define!). Perhaps most emblematic (dramatically) of this "progress" concept is the gigantic highway building program underway throughout Pennsylvania and the Nation—'to meet public demands."

As new highways are laid out over private (individual) lands, bureaucracy and sociologists justify this take-over of personal property under "progress" and "better serving the greatest mass of people."

This is the pattern of understanding on the "Project 70" front; a facet of—"the march of progress" (circa, mid-twentieth century).

The Mailbag Opens

Things you never know about unless you open your mail:

Millions of women now planning wardrobes for a trip to the New York World's Fair would fare better, fashionwise, by knowing which common pitfalls to avoid.

Don't put practicality above all else in your travel wardrobe; tourists in Europe who followed this philosophy have given American women a reputation for dowdiness.

Do go to the fair in the same smart pretty clothes you'd wear in your hometown. Don't fall for the outmoded cliche that New York is a "black dress" town. Do blossom forth in pretty pastels — but plan color schemes so you won't need too many different accessories.

Don't bring spike heels, even for dress, lower heels are "in" among smart New Yorkers.

Don't, and we repeat, don't, wear slacks, shorts, or pincurls to the Fair. Travel pretty, that's what the brochures say.

If you're one day able to buy canned food that heats itself automatically; or a plastic detergent bottle that converts to a handy kitchen utensil when empty; or a glass container that recreates its own vacuum when you replace the top, you can thank imaginative scientists working at a packaging research and development center.

In their battle for better packages, researchers work with tools that range from radioactive isotopes to Rube Goldberg machines that cap bottles at a rate of 1,000 per minute.

Whether you find credit a boon or a bane depends largely on how much you know about getting and using it. Do you know how much credit costs you? When you buy on time, who is financing you? How much credit can your family safely carry?

Do you know why the man who pays cash for everything can't get credit?

The answers to these and others can be received at your source of credit. He or she can help clarify your thinking on credit and keep you out of the red.

Whatever your size madam, you have the perfect figure! Perhaps it's not a 20th century eye-stopper but there was a time when your figure was just what the doctor ordered.

The matronly shape may be criticized by its owner today but it was once highly fashionable among the Lake Dwellers of Switzerland. Who are they?

In some societies, a chubby wife is a status symbol.

Are you skinny on top? The dandies of the flapper era approved, though their fathers whistled at the girls with the "pouter pigeon" look.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: Sometimes it is better never to open your mail.

Markin Time

Though you will need to work and strive,
You can unload much of your care,
Because you'll find, when you arrive,
The bridge you dread will not be there.

The Allen-Scott Report

Fulbright Mission

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Senator J. William Fulbright's fact-finding trip to Cyprus is a cleverly devised White House cover for a much more significant presidential mission.

The author if the speech charging "myths and errors" in U.S. foreign policy was commissioned by President Johnson to use his European visit to negotiate a joint trade policy with the British on the Soviet Union and Cuba.

The President gave the "dean" of the congressional Rhodes scholars the task of offering U.S. backing for Britain's plan to increase trade and grant long - term credits to Russia in exchange for support of U.S. policy of economic denial to Cuba.

The trade concessions to the Soviet, which Fulbright discussed in London with Prime Minister Sir Douglas - Home, closely match the U.S. proposal made to Premier Khrushchev earlier this month in exchange for Russian concessions on Cuba.

Like Khrushchev, Home welcomed with open arms Johnson's proposal for a relaxation of East-West trade bars, but showed little interest in changing his government's policies toward Cuba.

Because of his own highly publicized disagreement with the administration's Cuban policies, Senator Fulbright reported to the White House he was having trouble convincing Home that Johnson's proposal was being advocated as anything but a domestic political move.

Aides report that Fulbright's message caused the President to call Home and personally assure him he was serious in trying to deny trade to Castro while favoring the exchange of more goods with Khrushchev.

Inside Story — The Fulbright trade mission is designed as a key part of a major effort by the President and his chief foreign policy advisers to tidy up the so-called "Cuban mess."

Deeply concerned over the political problem Cuba will present the President in the campaign, these administration policy - makers are trying to create the image of a "Johnson victory" in Cuba without a new war scare.

An agreement with the British to reduce their Cuban exports, and a public indication by Russia that her control over Castro is being loosened, would fit nicely into this rosy picture, since all hard Cuban news is now controlled by Castro or the Johnson administration.

The rest depends on Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and his meetings with Home and other NATO leaders. If these talks are successful, Fulbright may contact junketing Khrushchev to tie down the other end of this strange trade deal.

The only threat to this international stage - setting by Johnson and Fulbright is growing new concern among members of the Senate Armed Services Preparedness Subcommittee that U.S. intelligence on Cuba is getting worse rather than improving.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator John Stennis, D-Miss., is planning new hearings because of reports from veteran military intelligence officers that the Central Intelligence Agency is securing less hard information on Cuba than before the October-November 1962 missile crisis. It was during this period before the confronation that Khrushchev was able to sneak his missiles to the island without detection by the CIA.

The Feuding Giants — The bitter backstage feud between Attorney General Robert Kennedy and Teamster boss Jimmy Hoffa has temporarily spilled over into the Senate.

Kennedy, using the full power of his office as the government's chief legal officer, interceded last week to prevent Senate investigators from questioning one of the government's key witnesses in convicting Hoffa of jury tampering.

Dear Abby

She's Roasting

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Summer is just around the corner and with it will come a problem that I have battled for the last four summers. My husband fancies himself an expert barbecue cook. He thinks he knows all there is to know about barbecuing and the results are disastrous! He never asks anyone how they like their steaks or hamburgers done, but proceeds to burn everything until it's dry and tough because that's the way HE likes his. He gets so mean and stubborn when he puts that apron on that nobody can tell him anything. I love the delicious taste of outdoor barbecue meats that cannot be duplicated in the kitchen. Any helpful ideas to solve my problem would be appreciated.

RAGGED EDGE

DEAR RAGGED: Sorry, but you are fighting a losing battle. There is nothing as impossible as a man who thinks he can barbecue. Pray for a short and rainy summer. And forget the "delicious taste of outdoor barbecued meats." It's not worth it.

DEAR ABBY: I understand that the bride has the say when it comes to the wedding, but what is the proper procedure when the groom's father is a minister (of the same faith) but lives in a distant town? If the bride asks her future father-in-law to perform the ceremony, what about her local minister? If she asks her own minister to officiate, what about the groom's father? Weddings can be difficult. Thank goodness I am the mother of only—

ONE DAUGHTER

DEAR ONE: Let the bride have her say. A minister who would resent it is a poor minister.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I haven't been getting along too well for quite some time. When he goes to work, he calls me all day to make sure I'm home. He's so jealous it's sickening. I get one hour a week for shopping. (At night.) He says there's too much cheating going on in the world and he doesn't want it to happen to us. Abby, I've been so bored and lonely for so long that when this young man spoke to me (on my hour out) I couldn't help myself. He's been coming to my house while my husband works, and I've never been happier. This other man is not married and he loves kids. (I have one.) He wants to marry me. I am under 25 and have my whole life ahead of me. I can't get a personal reply as my husband picks up the mail, so answer this in the paper. I can always deny it's me. What should I do?

WANTS A CHANGE

DEAR WANTS: Stick with the man you're married to. He has his faults, but at least you know what they are. The new Romeo may provide a new thrill, but that will wear off, too, eventually. The only thing you can be sure of insofar as the new flame is concerned is that he spends his afternoons with married women while their husbands work. Is THAT the kind of husband you want? Think it over.

DEAR ABBY: Last year I paid $45 for a pair of skis. They were hardly used, and as good as new. A very good friend of mine offered to buy them from me, so because of our friendship, I sold them to her for $12. Then she turned around and sold them to someone else for $25 and went bragging all around town about the profit she made on the deal. It's not the money, it's the principle of the thing. I would like your opinion of this person.

MAD

DEAR MAD: Your friend was stupid for "bragging" about the profit she made. But unless she bought the skis from you with the understanding that she was not to sell them, they were hers to do whatever she wanted with them.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Only 'Skin Deep'

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The familiar expression "only skin deep" does an injustice to a very remarkable organ of the body. For the skin is an organ, and functions in many ways other than just as a protective covering of the body.

Cooperating as it does with other body systems, the skin provides helpful clues for physicians — sometimes the earliest clues — in tracking down the nature of an illness.

There are, of course, many conditions of the skin that are totally unrelated to other parts of the body. These are not symptoms, but specific conditions or diseases of the skin itself.

Characteristic Changes

But there are many changes or abnormalities of the skin—rashes, discolorations, thickenings — that are so characteristic of certain body illnesses that the physician frequently is able to make his diagnosis from the skin symptoms.

The well-known itchy giant hives are immediately recognized as evidence of an allergy. Skin sensitivity to drugs, foods or other allergens places the body on guard to avoid further contact with these substances.

The skin rashes of measles, chicken pox, typhoid fever, typhus, and a great many other contagious diseases often are sufficiently characteristic to diagnose an illness.

Alerted For Attention

A diffuse yellowish jaundiced tinge of the skin alerts the patient and the physician to the need for immediate study.

Enlargement of the tiny blood vessels of the face, when accompanied by other symptoms, can often indicate a general body condition.

Petechiae, small "broken blood vessels" on the skin surface, have special meaning to the doctor when a diagnosis must be made.

Even illnesses of the stomach and intestines, the liver and spleen can produce special kinds of skin spots that guide the physician in detecting the disease and in determining treatment.

Abnormal deposits of pigment, or a lack of pigment, reflect certain body conditions.

Another Barometer

Unusual growth of hair, in both the male and the female, is often a barometer to the functioning of the hormone glands.

Small blisters on the surface of the skin of the face and chest may be symptomatic of the shingles (or herpes zoster) of a virus infection.

A collection of yellowish pigment in the skin of the upper eyelid is frequently an indication of a general systemic condition.

Not Always A Clue

Changes or abnormalities of the skin are not always indications of a health problems. Yet they frequently represent early signs of a body condition that can be easily controlled or cured.

The skin has greater "depth" than is generally accredited to it. For the physician, it often represents one of the most important elements in the establishment of a diagnosis.

Stories Behind Words

by

William S. Penfield

Dirigible

Two French brothers, Stephen and Joseph Montgolfier, are credited with making the first balloon that carried a person aloft. The ascent took place in 1784.

The Montgolfier balloons and the ones that followed had one big drawback — they could not be steered.

Two other Frenchmen, Charles Renard and A. C. Krebs, built the first airship, or steerable balloon. It made a five-mile round trip near Paris on Aug. 9, 1884.

The name "dirigible balloon" was chosen to distinguish this steerable type balloon from the free, or uncontrolled, type. "Dirigible" was derived from the Latin verb "dirigere," meaning to direct or steer. "Dirigible balloon" eventually was shortened to "dirigible."

Attending the meeting were 31 members and a guest, Herbert Hoagland of Mount Bethel. The next meeting will be held jointly with the East Bangor Lions at Johnny's Restaurant in Portland at 7 p.m. on May 21.

2 Women Hurt In Crash At Snydersville

STROUDSBURG — Two elderly women were injured yesterday at 1 p.m. in a two-car collision on Rt. 209 near Syndersville in Hamilton Twp.

Admitted to the General Hospital of Monroe County for treatment was Ella Gilbert, 82, of Philadelphia, driver of the car. She suffered lacerations, contusions and a fractured wrist. Also admitted for treatment was Miriam Shipe, 72, a passenger, Stroudsburg State Police said.

Police identified Thomas Jenkinson, 58, of Sciota as the driver of a south-bound vehicle. He had a vehicle in tow, guided by Robert Hogdon. Hogdon suffered lacerations of the right leg, police said.

According to police, Jenkinson was traveling south towing the other vehicle. The tow rope snapped and became wrapped around the axle of the towing vehicle. The vehicle swerved into the north-bound lane and collided with the Gilbert car.

It costs Daily Record advertisers $3.36 for this ad on the weekly, 7-time rate. That figures out to only 48c per day!

What you get when you buy a three-line ad in The Daily Record is not just a single ad on one of the want ad pages. You've actually bought 10,150 copies of your three-line ad. And the price includes personal delivery of each copy to the reader's doorstep.

Just imagine the cost of reaching all those Daily Record families by post card. Why the postage alone would be $406.00! But The Daily Record does it all for you for a measly 48c per day. (For only $3.36 we'll do it seven times straight!)

Takal Exhibits At Weyhe Show

Saylorsburg — Peter Takal of Saylorsburg is currently having a one-man show of his "Of Nature, Of Man" suite of lithographs in the Weyhe Gallery, 794 Lexington Ave., NYC.

The suite of 20 prints is valued at $1,400, with prices of individual prints ranging from $75 to $125.

Takal has taken his lyrical landscapes from Monroe County in many instances, and exhibits a wide range of line quality. His line can be smooth and lyrical, yet when required, can be short and abrupt.

The quality of his work has won him the right to the show now in progress at the Weyhe Gallery. It will run through May 29.

Most of the prints in the Tamarind suite of lithographs are in one color, but the lithographers have used the choicest papers to compliment the tone of the drawings.

Buffs, whites, natural papers, and fine hand-made papers were used by the printers.

Takal was born in Bucharest, Romania, in 1905, and came to the United States in 1939. Major museums across the world display his work.

"We take pride in making this announcement for once again it offers a chance to show the public what the mentally retarded can accomplish," McCool added.

According to McCool the boy's band from Mansfield was invited last October to appear at the Annual Convention of the National Association for Retarded Children, of which the Monroe County Chapter is a member.

The convention in Washington, D.C. was honored by a visit from the late President John F. Kennedy, and the band was flown from Connecticut to play for him on that occasion.

YMCA Women Challenged To Use Potential To Fullest

Stroudsburg — An enthusiastic group of women attended the YMCA reorganizational meeting last week at the YMCA of Monroe County in Stroudsburg.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Ruth Smith, president of the Y Mothers Club. The meeting opened with a prayer. Peirce Harley, general secretary of the YMCA of Monroe County, emphasized the importance of the Women's role in the first 50 years of the YMCA.

Harley stated the women can and will want to play an even more important role in YMCA's second half century of service to this area.

Mrs. Rose Schoch reported on her visit to the YMCA Women's Clubs State Convention in Allentown. Mrs. Schoch said the delegates were challenged by Miss Rebekah S. Sheaffer, retired school teacher from Lancaster, who said, "If women would only open up their potential, what a wonderful strong YMCA we would have. They have no idea what they can accomplish."

Mrs. Jennie Siptroth and Mrs. Linda Kirkhuff from the Leisure Hour Club attended the convention with Mrs. Schoch.

The women received an information sheet telling of the work of other YMCA service groups throughout the state.

Mrs. Ruth Smith reported on the work of the local Y Mothers Club and said the group over the past three years have completed projects for the Y totaling approximately $1,000.

Mrs. Audrey Mannix spoke of the work of the Gradale in past years. Many of these women now have children of Y age and it was agreed that an invitation should be extended to all former Gradale members. In view of the 50th Anniversary "Y" Year, it would be nice to have these women together for a reunion.

An advisory committee has been set up to plan for the June 3rd meeting and to set up the Fall meetings. This committee will include two members from all present and past women's groups of the Y.

Present at the meeting were Jean Abbruzzese, Jean R. Appel, Mrs. John Baujan, Elizabeth Bolich, Effie Heller, Marian Hoffner, Mary Katz, Lottie Ludwig, Bertha Lee, Audrey Mannix, Anna V. Mansfield of Portland; Frieda Nevins, Elsie Pedersen, Margaret Reppert, Rose Schoch, Patricia Sharp, Marjorie Sills, Jennie Siptroth, Ruth Smith, Mrs. A. W. Williams, and Mrs. Rosie Woehicke.

This brings the total to 41 who have registered an interest in the formation of one women's service group at the "Y".

If you make homemade noodles, try dressing them—after they are cooked—with loads of sweet butter and freshly grated Parmesan cheese. Then sprinkle with a generous amount of minced parsley.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

These last few weeks, I have been traveling a mad pace, like a whirling dervish, and much of the time has been spent in company with a great number of very attractive women.

Monday evening it was my pleasure to present a program before the Bangor Junior Women and their guests from the Pen Argyl Club. The following evening, I reviewed a book for our Stroudsburg Junior Women, and on Wednesday I enjoyed myself thoroughly at the Pen 'n Sword where the local Hadassah held its annual Donor Luncheon. I would certainly hate to be a judge of beauty and be faced with the memberships of any of these groups . . . I never saw such an array of pretty women, wearing so many lovely summer dresses, hats and accessories.

The Hadassah luncheon was presided over by Estelle Koster, who is just ending her second year as president. She has been most capable, and is being succeeded by Eileen Karpe, another very efficient young woman with whom I have had the opportunity of becoming acquainted through our annual Wyckoff-Hadassah Fashion Show (to be held this year on Wednesday evening, June 24th, at Unity House). If memory serves, Estelle announced that there were more than 60 paid up donors this year, contributing more than $1,000.00 to Hadassah projects.

But I must tell you about the program, because it was an outstanding one and many of you may not be aware that one of our local young women—Mary Jane Wolbers, whose husband is associated with the health education department of our local college—is an acknowledged authority on the dance, particularly the religious dance. Mrs. Wolbers is the mother of four children, I believe, but no one would guess it, observing her slim, graceful figure, and her completely relaxed manner. With a few deft, imaginative costume changes, she took her audience from the early days when man performed dances alone as a means of communicating with and expressing himself to his God, through the pre-classical dances of Shakespeare's time, and the classical dances of a more cultured period, to the dances of today, closing her performance with "Attitudes of Prayer" in which were combined the gestures used in supplication by the various great religions of the world. All of us were much impressed, and Mrs. Wolbers must have been thrilled by the applause, so generously and spontaneously offered.

The entire affair was a delight with Edith Jacobson being "birthday congratulated" on all sides; Phyllis Rubin being handed verbal bouquets as a local member who has achieved the coveted post of regional vice president; Ruth Samet beaming with pride because her son, Dr. Sherwood, had breezed through his national boards on the first try and can now practise anywhere in the union; and Sue Fleischmann pleasantly excited because her 7-year-old Carol was off to the Kiwanis meeting to assist in presenting a program—in FRENCH.

I must also mention the excellent motion picture, "Question 7", which was a feature of last week's very splendid May Fellowship luncheon of the Monroe County Council of United Churchwomen. This is a powerful picture which the general public should certainly see . . . a picture which has even more to offer adults than children, I think, because it fosses squarely into the laps of adults the necessity of being on the alert to see and see those points at which Communism is worming its way into our lives until our freedom is at stake. The film tells the story of a minister, his wife and son in East Germany—but it could be the story of any parent . . . or any child . . . anywhere. SEE IT IF YOU CAN. It is forceful . . . and its warning is needed.

Cy Barrett Says

SBA Booklets

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

DEAR CY:

The reader who signed his letter "Books Dodger" should be seeking a competent bookkeeper and excellent tax man for protection. Please pass on to him the following personal message from me. "As of now, there is a first class capable bookkeeper with broad accounting background eager to serve you. I am highly conversant with all phases of federal as well as state and local tax laws, rules, provisions, regulations and vagaries. I am at liberty for employment with a progressive individual or organization, at a salary commensurate with services rendered."

JOE BUCKLEY

DEAR JOE:

Thanks for the "inside," but "Books Dodger" is in another part of the world. Why diminish your potential with only one prospect anyway? A want ad in your newspaper could take you through the gates of bookkeeping fortune. Cross out 14 words in your message and run this up the want ad flagpole: "CAPABLE BOOKKEEPER with broad accounting background eager to serve you. Highly conversant with all phases of federal, state and local tax laws, rules, regulations, and vagaries. At liberty for employment with progressive organization or individual. Salary commensurates with services rendered." You don't even mention having passed this inside information along to an employment agency, Joe. Guys like you make me cry! P.S. Your case reveals a valuable want ad secret: Get ideas on paper and an ad writes itself.

CY

DEAR CY:

In fairness to the legitimate real estate developers and the public, it seems to me you should mention the fact that sharp practice is not universal. As in any other transaction, prospective buyers should proceed on a basis of investigation of the person or firm with whom they may be dealing, rather than on fear that the development plan is full of deliberately created pitfalls.

MISTER

DEAR MISTER:

No question about it! In any traditional American business, industry or profession, it's the tiny minority who cause trouble. Our citizens know the "good guys" prevail but need to be informed regarding those who operate against the grain of good ethical business conduct.

CY

DEAR CY:

Was it in your column I read about the Small Business administration providing helpful booklets for getting started in business? If so, what businesses have they written up?

YOUNGBERT

DEAR YOUNGBERT:

The Small Business administration has produced numerous booklets in their "Starting and Managing . . ." series. Among them are: Starting and Managing a Small Business of Your Own (25 cents) . . . a Small Credit Bureau and Collection Service (60 cents) . . . a Service Station (35 cents) . . . a Small Bookkeeping Service (30 cents) . . . a Small Building Business (35 cents) . . . an Aviation Fixed Base Operation (25 cents) . . . a Small Motel (30 cents) . . . a Small Duplicating and Mailing Service (25 cents). Though produced under the auspices of the SBA they are sold through the U.S. Government Printing Office, Division of Public Documents, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Shimko Re-Enlists In Army

MT. POCONO — Sp4 George T. Shimko has re-enlisted in the Army. He is the son of Mrs. Theresa Shimko and the late George Shimko of Pocono Summit.

Shimko has completed a four-year tour with the Army. He has received a diploma for completing a course in multiple engine medium transport helicoptor maintainence. He also received the Air Medal for meritorious achievement on Dec. 23, 1962, in Viet Nam.

While serving as a gunner on a rescue aircraft to the aid of a helicoptor that was disabled while going to Viet Nam operations against the Viet Cong insurgent forces, he directed suppressive fire which allowed imperiled crew to safely exit their aircraft.

After he landed, he continued to expose himself to enemy fire to permit troops to unload and successfully evacuate from the danger zone.

"To his courage and forthright actions in face of grave personal danger," the citation said, "resulted in the prevention of injuries and death to endangered U.S. troops.

Crackdown On Violators

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Motor Federation has called on state and local police for a more rigid crackdown on traffic violations and greater detail in accident reports.

"Too much emphasis is being placed on speed in current enforcement practices, while many other more dangerous accident producing factors go unheeded," the federation said.

"What we are advocating is stricter enforcement of all violations," said PMF President Samuel S. Scott, "especially those known to contribute to high accident frequency."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Monday, May 11, 1964

March 21 to April 20 (Aries — It may seem at the onset that things wont turn out as hoped for, but faithfulness and self-confidence, supporting sturdy endeavor will do the trick. Details, accuracy important.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus — Know exactly what is expected of you and what you CAN do before you begin. Keep interest strong in pertinent matters. Don't yield to lethargy or indifference.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini — Your dependability and willingness to work unstintingly for a cause can put you far ahead in the race for future gains. But visualize all possibilities before going forward.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer — Start early, maintain the steadiest pace you can. Introduce a new twist to old matters, a fresh approach to ordinary chores.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo — Improvements are in order in tactics as well as in the actual endeavor. A grand day for a spirited enterprising Leoite.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo — Mercury, benefic, encourages your best efforts. Don't strike out, though, into uncharted seas in mere HOPE that maybe the rainbow is at the other end.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra — Venus only mildly auspicious. Give matters a second glance in case you overlooked something the first time around. Translate good thoughts into substantial deeds.

October 23 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Don't permit dissenters to destroy your interest in a subject. There is a remedy for each problem, and room for, need of, many talents.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius — Jupiter auspicious. Expand efforts to cover areas not heretofore trod but whose fields are fertile. Evaluation of possibilities important.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn — Balanced effort, attending first things first, gaining and keeping confidences important now. Keep spirits bright.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius — View things in their true perspective — not as you wish them to be. Keep your wits about you in decision - making, handling moneys. Don't overtax yourself.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Neptune mildly favorable. Set your goals early, and your method of procedure. Then, with the way charted, move steadily, surely, increasing tempo as you progress.

YOU BORN TODAY: You love friends, yet can retreat into yourself in reverie and sober contemplation, whence you do much of your best thinking. You are a thinker with an excellent memory. But you act so quickly you tend to skip over the surface at times, lose some of the meat beneath. Control emotions. Avoid the unconventional, or you could wind up in trouble. Taureans excel in medicine, nursing, invention, investigative work, diplomacy, and art.

WISHING WELL

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

S-burg A's, Reeders Share First Place After Triumphs

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg A's and Reeders remained unbeaten with identical 3-0 records in the Pocono Mountain Baseball League following victories yesterday.

Coach Dick Miller's A's tripped Saylorsburg's Lakers, 7-5, while Reeders bumped winless West End, 6-2. In other games, the Stroudsburg Poconos suffered a 9-3 defeat at the hands of Kunkletown, and Bowmanstown nipped Bushkill, 10-9.

Tom Barrow and Harold Strunk shared the pitching chores for the A's while Saylorsburg's Serfass went the distance to absorb the loss.

The A's pounced upon Serfass for six runs in the first two innings but were blanked after the third. Saylorsburg picked up a pair of runs in the second and finished their scoring with three more in the fifth.

Reeders kept pace with the A's by pushing across four runs in the bottom of the eighth to break up a 2-2 ballgame and gain the nod against West End.

Paul Frailey, who toiled the distance for the winners, helped his own cause by banging out three hits, including a double and batting across two runs. Jim Wilson also collected three hits for Reeders.

Red Kresge and Gil Overpeck each banged a pair of safeties.

Kunkletown used a 16-hit assault against the S-burg Poconos to win its second straight game, 9-3. Leslie poled two homers for the winners and got three hits in five trips. Richard Serfass also belted three safeties. Ken Harrison swatted a pair of safeties for the Poconos while teammate Don Metzgar slammed an eighth-inning home run.

Bowmanstown sent Bushkill down to its third straight defeat, 10-9 by pushing across three runs in the bottom of he ninth after trailing by a 9-7 margin going into the final frame.

It was a free-swinging duel all the way with Bushkill swatting 14 hits, including a homer by R. Hickman, while the winner banged out 12 hits.

Mets, Cards Split; 4-1, 10-1

NEW YORK (AP) — Consecutive doubles by Dick Groat, Bill White and Ken Boyer scored four runs with two out in the third inning and opened the way for St. Louis' 10-1 victory over the New York Mets and a split of their doubleheader Sunday. The Mets won the opener 4-1.

Groat's double knocked in starter Ray Washburn and Curt Flood, who had singled. White and Boyer followed with their doubles off 19-year-old Jerry Hinsley, who had retired the first eight batters in his first major league start.

Javier Triples

Julian Javier tripled across two runs in the Cardinals' three-run sixth and scored on Washburn's sacrifice bunt. Javier also doubled and scored on Bobby Uecker's single in the eighth.

Washburn allowed only three hits and didn't walk a batter before leaving the game when he became tired in the seventh. Ron Taylor preserved Washburn's second victory against no defeats.

Rod Kanehl's first home run of the season sparked a three-run rally in the Mets' ninth inning of the first game that broke a 1-1 deadlock. Frank Thomas also hit a home run in the inning.

In between New York scored on Ron Hunt's double and Jim Hickman's single. Hickman was picked off first before Thomas homered.

Tracy Stallard permitted five hits as he outpitched former Met Roger Craig for his second triumph of the season.

Braves Split Doubleheader With Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Willie Stargell's two-out single climaxed a three-run ninth-inning rally and gave Pittsburgh a 6-5 victory over Milwaukee in the second game of a doubleheader Sunday. The Braves won the opener 11-5.

Bill Mazeroski fanned to start the Pirate ninth but reached first when the ball got by catcher Joe Torre. Gene Alley's single moved him to second and Gene Freese sacrificed the runners along.

Bob Bailey singled the tying runs across, then stole second and scored on Stargell's safety.

The Braves had jumped off to a five-run lead with two-run doubles by Ed Mathews and Mike de la Hoz sparking the first inning rally.

Robert Clemente hit his third home run of the season for the Pirates.

Pittsburgh got two runs in the eighth. Rex Johnston batted for Roy Face and walked. Bailey doubled and Bill Virdon walked to load the bases. Then Clemente singled in two runs.

Bobby Tiefenaur replaced Bob Sadowski and struck out Stargell and Donn Clendenon. Sokey Burgess forced Clemente at second.

Tigers Lose 5th Straight To Baltimore

DETROIT (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles took advantage of throwing errors by Detroit catchers Mike Roarke and Bill Freehan and won two games over the Tigers 2-1 and 7-1 Sunday. The losses extended Detroit's losing streak to five games.

A wild pickoff throw by Roarke in the fourth inning of the second game sent home two Baltimore runs and gave the Orioles a 4-0 lead. They added three more in the sixth, giving young Wally Bunker a seven-run cushion.

Bunker lost his shutout in the sixth when Willie Kirkland dropped Billy Bruton's fly to deep right, allowing Norm Cash to score.

Wild Throw

Bill Freehan's wild throw after fielding a sacrifice bunt by Brooks Robinson in the fourth inning of the first game allowed Norm Siebern, who had walked, to score from first. Robinson reached third on the play and later scored the eventual winning run on an infield out.

Relief pitcher Dick Hall came on in the ninth inning of the first game and saved the victory for Milt Pappas.

Al Kaline hit a ground rule double to left on Hall's first pitch, driving in Detroit's only run. But the big right-hander struck out Don Demeter and got Willie Horton on a grounder after walking Norm Cash intentionally.

Dave Wickersham, who struck out 11 and gave up just three hits, suffered his second loss of the season. He has won four.

Chisox Hold First

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ron Hansen slugged a three-run homer and J. C. Martin had a bases empty shot leading the Chicago White Sox to a 5-3 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Sunday. The victory protected the White Sox' slim American League lead.

Hansen's homer produced the first three Chicago runs and Martin's broke a 3-3 tie in the fourth.

Jim Fregosi slammed a two-run homer for the Angels and rookie Dick Simpson connected with the bases empty.

Fisher Wins

Right-hander Eddie Fisher pitched four scoreless innings in relief for Chicago and picked up his second victory.

The White Sox, who have won 12 of their last 15 games, got a dozen hits off five Los Angeles pitchers. Reliever Willie Smith took the loss, his first in two decisions.

Hansen's homer, his second of the series and fourth of the season, put the White Sox ahead 3-0 in the first inning. Angel starter Bob Lee had given up a double by Joe Cunningham and a walk to Pete Ward before Hansen connected.

The Angels tied it in the third. Simpson started the rally with a 410-foot home run off Gary Peters. It was Simpson's first major league homer and his first hit in his last 20 at-bats.

Billy Moran followed with a double and Fregosi made it 3-3 with his third homer of the year.

Martin led off the Chicago fourth with his homer, a 390-foot shot off Smith.

Casper Triumphs In Colonial Golf

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Challengers crumbled in the simmering Texas heat Sunday and nerveless Billy Casper swept to the Colonial National Invitation Golf Championship with no one seriously threatening him.

The plump Californian grasped the lead on the first hole of the final round and never relinquished the upper hand. He closed with a par 70 to stash away $14,000 of the $75,000 in prize money.

The round gave him a one under par 72-hole total of 279 and produced a four-shot lead over runner-up Tommy Jacobs of Bermuda Dunes, Calif.

Share Top Spot

Jacobs and Casper shared the top spot with 209s entering the last 18. Jacobs quickly shattered his title aspirations with bogeys at three of the first six holes.

Jacobs finished with a 74 for 283 and earned $7,000.

Former National Open champ Gene Littler and Gary Player of South Africa were perhaps the only actual contenders other than Jacobs as the final round began.

But Player never got within four strokes and stumbled to a 74.

Littler, meanwhile, remained in the running until a bogey at the fifth started him on a downhill trek that ended in a dismal 75.

Second Win

The victory, Casper's second of the 1964 tour, vaulted him into third among the leading money winners with $30,891. He joined Jack Nicklaus as the only duplicate winner on the current tour.

Littler's 285 was good for third place and $4,000. Player shared fourth with four others at 287. This group included Arnold Palmer, Dow Finsterwald, Ben Hogan and Gay Brewer, who each pocketed $3,160.

Yankees Top Tribe Twice

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bill Stafford scored the winning run from second base on pitcher Ted Abernathy's throwing error in the 10th inning as the New York Yankees completed a doubleheader sweep of Cleveland 3-2 Sunday. The Yankees mauled the Indians in the opener 12-2.

Abernathy's errant throw came on Bobby Richardson's one-out grounder with Stafford at second and Phil Linz at first. Linz had singled after Stafford forced Clete Boyer at second on an attempted sacrifice.

Elston Howard, who smashed his first home run in the second inning, scored the tying run for the Yankees, who now have won five straight, in the seventh inning when he walked, went to third on Joe Pepitone's second of three singles and scored as Pedro Gonzales forced Pepitone at second.

Wagner Scores

Leon Wagner scored the Indians' first run in the fourth. He singled, got around to third on a wild pitch and an infield out and came home on Tito Francona's single. Fred Whitfield rapped his first home run in the sixth.

Roger Maris drove in five runs in the opener with three hits, including a two-run homer in the second inning. Pepitone also homered for the Yankees while Wagner connected with one on for the Indians in the fourth.

Boyer's two-run double was the big blow in New York's five-run first. Richardson got five hits in six times at bat in the game.

Dodgers Blast Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — John Roseboro and Frank Howand homered and Jim Gilliam contributed a two-run triple as the Los Angeles Dodgers ended a three-game losing streak with a 9-1 victory over San Francisco behind Don Drysdale's six-hit pitching.

Salvaging the finale of a three-game series, the Dodgers collected three runs in the third on a double by Drysdale, a single by Maury Wills and Gilliam's triple. Gilliam then scored on a wild pitch.

First Homer

Roseboro hit his first homer of the year in the sixth off San Francisco starter Jack Sanford, and Howard blasted his 10th off reliever Gaylor Perry with a mate aboard in the five-run eighth.

Tommy Davis stole home in that inning, and Willie McCovey committed a two-base error at first base, setting up a two-run single by Wills.

Willie Mays drove in the Giants' only run in the sixth with his second double of the game. Mays now has hit safely in 17 straight games.

Twins Trim Kansas City; Mincher HRs

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Don Mincher slammed a three-run homer and Camilo Pascual pitched his way out of numerous jams as Minnesota whipped Kansas City 6-3 Sunday.

Mincher belted his fourth homer in the Twins' four-run first inning. Minnesota already had scored once in the frame on successive singles by Rich Rollins, Tony Oliva and Jimmie Hall.

The Twins added another run in the fourth on Earl Battey's fourth homer. Tony Oliva doubled in a run in the seventh.

Hurt On Catch

Battey was forced out of the game in the sixth when he made fine catch of George Williams' foul pop and crashed into a ballboy's chair against the backstop railing. He was not seriously hurt.

The A's touched Pascual for 12 hits and got four walks but didn't score until the ninth. Successive singles by Dick Green, Manny Jimenez and Jim Gentile got the first run across with two out.

Rocky Colavito then doubled, scoring Jimenez and Gentile. But the Athletics' slugger was out trying to go to third, Hall to Zoilo Versalles to Rollins.

Southwest Conference Hands Out Probations

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The Southwest Conference cracked down hard on half of its members, including national football champion Texas, Saturday, then suggested to the NCAA that this should be sufficient.

Probations were assessed against Texas and Southern Methodist for recruiting violations involving both coaches and alumni.

Southern Metehodist was hit hardest with a two-year term during which it can't compete in post-season games.

Texas, given an indefinite probation but able to get rid of it in a year, was not penalized and can compete in all activities of the NCAA, including post-season games. Texas has been in bowl games five straight years.

Baylor and Texas Tech were reprimanded as part of the most sweeping action ever taken by the Southwest Conference in attempting to clean up the athletic recruiting situation.

Dr. J. William Davis, member of the Faculty Committee, governing body of the conference, and also a member of the Rules Infractions Committee of the NCAA, said he would ask the latter not to take action. He said the NCAA had been apprised of the trouble before the spring meeting here.

Southern Methodist was penalized for violating the excessive financial inducements rule and of offering aid to prospective athletes beyond what is permitted. It also was held to have given excessive financial aid to students already in school.

Texas Charged

Texas was charged with violating the rule that a prospective athlete to the campus must be accompanied by an alumnus, with payment of the expenses of prospective athletes to the campus and with excessive entertainment.

Baylor and Texas Tech were reprimanded for exceeding the limit of visits to prospective athletes. The limit is two Nobody ever came by a victory in scholastic baseball any harder than did Freddy Frantz last Friday afternoon. He pitched against Stroud Union's No. 1 challenger for the Lehigh Valley League baseball championship—defending champion Northampton—and hurled a no-hitter until the final inning when he was finally touched for a pair of bloop singles.

It was a tense final round in the dramatic and crucial contest. The Konkrete Kids had loaded the bases with two out. The home-town crowd gasped when Mike Lisetski rapped the ball to deep left which went foul by about a foot. He finally popped up to end the game and Northampton lost its first game after 23 consecutive wins, 2-1.

Freddy won in one of the finest pitching duels you'll ever see in scholastic diamond circles. Neither pitcher deserved to lose this one. Both Frantz and Northampton's Chet Cinamella pitched magnificently. For Cinamella, it was his first defeat in three years of varsity competition.

Only one of the three runs in the game was earned, and that was Glenn Bisbing's tremendous circuit smash to deep center which sailed into the woods nearly 400 feet away. That gave the Mountaineers a 1-1 tie and Frantz, who would have had a shutout victory but for two walks and an error in the third inning, handcuffed the Northampton club the rest of the way.

It was truly a wonderful victory for Frantz, a young kid who spent his "spring training" in court and who hopes baseball eventually will become his career. So does Glenn Bisbing.

Whether they make the grade is a moot point. There are many outstanding scholastic ballplayers who will not make it to the majors.

But this was certainly Freddy's biggest triumph in his young career. You could see it written all over his face following the final out last Friday.

Freddy Frantz has one "horrible fault," however. But it is one which will not prevent him from making the majors. Freddy is married. And this "terrible tragedy" took him to court during the regular spring training for Stroud Union's baseball team.

While his teammates were working out both in the gym and on the field, young Freddy was in Monroe County Court with his father, George, and Atty. Lee B. Koehler, in a battle to earn the privilege to play baseball in his senior year. Judge Fred B. Davis eventually allowed the privilege.

Freddy went to court because the Stroud Union School board decreed last December that all extra-curricular activities be denied any married student. Or, as the board put it: "No public performance in the name of the school."

The competitive spirit of Fred Frantz and his father is, indeed, a fierce one. Together, they battled the school board and took the contest to court. The odds were against them, of course. But Frantz doesn't go any place to lose.

This is why Freddy has more than a few critics. His strong desire to win is sometimes reflected by his attitude. He is apt to throw a mild tantrum now and then. But so do many athletes, young and old, amateur and professional. Many of Fred's critics are old enough to remember the famed "Gas House Gang" of the St. Louis Cardinals. And what faults did they have—except being somewhat obnoxious winners? There is certainly one thing worse, and that's being an obnoxious loser.

Freddy is cut from this same "Gas House Gang" mold: a fierce, undying spirit to win. Personally, I see nothing wrong with it. I've never seen a good athlete smile upon a defeat. Some simply take it more gracefully than others, but they still don't like it.

At any rate, Freddy has already won his major battles this year. He is part—and only a part—of a wonderful baseball team which Coach Wilmont Smith has welded together.

Today, the Mountaineers sit atop the diamond heap of the Lehigh Valley League. Northampton has virtually been dethroned. Stroud Union is on its way to its first title in 13 years—and possibly its first undefeated season in history. The overall record is now 8-0; the league record, 5-0. Only two more league games remain.

It is to the credit of such fine ballplayers as Frantz, Bisbing, Dave Pierson, Tom Morcken, Mike Thurson, Les David, Paul Albert, Raymond Bago and Bill Bisbing. And don't forget the man who led these boys to the position they now hold—Head Coach Wilmont Smith.

It is a team which refuses to quit. It is comprised of individuals not afraid to fight for what they believe is right. It is a team of champions.

And if you doubt one word of it, ask the scouts of the Chicago Cubs, the Los Angeles Angels and the New York Mets. Why them? Well, for one reason, they were among the 500 who attended last Friday's game.

Ghana Bitter About Sugar

By KENNETH WHITING

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — The Ghana Boxing Authority took a dim view Sunday of featherweight champion Sugar Ramos' split decision victory over Ghana's Floyd Robertson Saturday night and declared it "null and void."

The authority said it will issue a full statement Monday.

Radio Ghana quoted an authority spokesman as describing the result of the fight as "grossly unfair when considered in relation to the background of the judges."

Judges Ed Lassman of Miami, Fla., and Ramon G. Velazquez of Mexico City gave Ramos the decision while referee Jack Hart of London favored the challenger.

"Bad And Wicked"

Ghana Radio described the decision as "bad and wicked" and said Robertson was "cruelly robbed of his golden chance of becoming the new world champion."

Ramos left Accra early Sunday for Las Palmas en route to Mexico City. Most of his face was bruised and puffed and a large cut inside his lip had swollen his mouth.

Hart said he was astounded by the decision of other officials. The referee said he had Ramos slightly ahead on points until the 10th round but after that it was entirely Robertson's fight.

Section 7 of the Ghana Boxing Authority rules says the referee's decision is final, but Section 1 says, "All contests shall be controlled by a referee, two judges and a timekeeper."

Thirty thousand fans, who had seen Robertson floor the champion for a count of six in the 13th round, milled around the ringside demanding that the decision in the 15-round title fight be set aside and victory awarded to the Ghanaian challenger.

Disorders Erupt

They were dispersed by Ghanaian Army soldiers, wielding batons, but the disorders lasted far into the night.

Hart warned Ramos three times about punching low. "Dirty American judges," yelled some fans as they stormed the ring.

The breakdown of the officials' cards, showing how they voted in each round, was not available. The Associated Press gave five rounds to Ramos, four to Robertson and called six even.

The 27-year-old Robertson, the British Empire feather champ and a popular favorite in Ghana, was bitter in his dressing room.

"I won it," he said. "Not by a big margin, but I won it. He never had me in trouble. I had him down in the 13th and in bad shape the whole last half of the bout. I'd like to fight him again anytime."

Phillies Lose To Reds

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A passed ball by catcher Gus Triandos on a third strike led to the deciding run Sunday as the Cincinnati Reds snapped the Philadelphia Phillits four-game winning streaked with a 2-0 victory.

Two southpaws, Christ Short of the Phillies and Joe Nuxhall of the Reds, were hooked in a scoreless pitching duel when Cincinnati's Deron Johnson struck out swinging. But the ball eluded Triandos, and Johnson reached first safely.

Short, who fanned 11, then struck out Frank Robinson for what would have been the third out before he walked Tom Harper. Chico Cardenas rifled a single to left for the lead run. The Reds added another run in the eighth after Short struck out the first two batters. Johnson singled and scored on Robinson's second double of the game.

The Phillies only real threat came in the sixth when Roy Sievers lined a triple that skidded into the home bullpen. When Robinson had trouble digging the ball out, Sievers tried for an inside the park home run but was out at the plate, Robinson to Johnson to catcher Johnny Edwards.

49ers Owner Dies At 45

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Vic Morabito, managing owner of the San Francisco 49ers professional football team, died at St. Mary's Hospital Sunday after being stricken by a coronary thrombosis. He was 45.

He was stricken early Saturday night at his San Francisco home and taken to the hospital.

With his brother, Tony, he founded the National Football League club in 1946. Tony died of a coronary in 1957 while watching the 49er-Chicago Bear game at Kezar Stadium here.

The club was a limited partnership in which Vic Morabito had a large share. Tony's widow is a principal owner and there are several others with minor holdings.

OLD VIC ON THE AVENIDA JUAREZ—SOLD OUT!

"To be or not to be . . ." "Ser o no ser . . ." Hamlet, translated into Spanish, was a recent standing-room-only success in Mexico City, as were plays by Molière and Tennessee Williams.

At various times, the Old Vic and U.S. Actors' Studio have played to packed houses.

And in the plazas of Guanajuato, classic Spanish dramas are presented during a yearly festival.

Original Mexican drama and musical comedies, sidewalk art exhibits, performances or the corps of ballet—Mexican cultural fare is as richly varied as the cuisine at its famous international restaurants.

In the many galleries filled with vital modern art . . . in a concert of the National Symphony at the Palace de Belles Artes . . . in the historic dances performed by the international award winning Ballet Folklorico Nacional . . . throughout Mexico are elements of the two great traditions which Mexicans have blended into their modern national culture—the learned Maya-Aztec and the European, strong with Renaissance spirit.

Knowledge of our modern neighbor is important today. Send for the free 16-page booklet, "Know Mexico," Box 1900, New York 19.

For this same school year the Board will retain its $5.00 per capita assessment under School Code Section 679 and it will retain its former 18 mill tax on real estate. EXHIBITS 64 — Two garden tractors that will be on display Thursday and Friday at Stroud Union's Industrial Arts, Art and Home Economic exhibition are worked on by two students. Foster Lee, left and Paul Cobb, right, designed, fabricated and built them. Albert N. Cross, industrial arts instructor, looks on. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Stroud Union To Exhibit Student Arts, Home Ec

STROUDSBURG — Student handicrafts from the industrial arts, art and home economics departments of Stroud Union High School will be presented May 14 and 15 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the high school.

The third annual exhibit is put on to provide the public with a comprehensive picture of student activities in these three departments.

The program also informs the student body and gives recognition to student efforts in these areas of education.

Teachers In Charge

Handling arrangements for the show are teachers Albert Cross, John De Vivo, Frances Feltham, Mary Hall, John McIntyre, John Montgomery, Gordon Taylor and Katharine Ziegler.

The home economics portion of the show will be centered around exhibits showing how the course prepares girls for good home and family living.

Home Economics

The exhibit's program says of home economics: "In addition to the booking and sewing, which are traditionally thought of as home economics, we cover a much broader field of child care and guidance and family and community relationships."

In junior high school home economics offers a girl a foundation in basic meal preparation and nutrition, as well as the fundamentals of clothes making and good grooming.

A course offered for the first time this year and has proven successful is Clothing 1, a course in clothing construction.

Industrial Arts

A student taking the industrial arts curriculum at Stroud Union studies the history and related problems of industry and technology.

Industrial arts is a general education which offers the student an insight into industry through laboratory and classroom work.

In a society where technology and industry continuously influence our life, the program points out, "Through industrial arts a learner develops an awareness and appreciation of the tools, materials and processes involved in the past and present methods of production."

"It provides experiences in developing basic skills and knowledge common to many occupations and professions.

"The study of industry helps the student understand that materials and products which contribute to the comforts of every day living are the results of man's inquiring mind and his ability to solve industrial and technological problems."

Art Program

The art program at Stroud Union Junior-Senior High School is divided into three phases:

The seventh grade program is designed to provide a basic working knowledge of media and techniques of drawing and painting.

The eighth grade program allows the student to explore in three dimensions. The new mediums he or she will use are clay, wood, cooper, plaster and design.

A fine arts class or art majors in the eleventh and twelveth grades, who take art every day for the entire school term, go deeper into visual arts.

This course does not aim to develop saleable skills, but to provide students an awareness of their heritage in art.

Pleiss Cited For Top Jaycee Work

STROUDSBURG — Philip N. Pleiss of East Stroudsburg was named Jaycee of the Month by the Pocono Mountain Chapter Junior Chamber of Commerce at its meeting Monday, May 4.

Pleiss was sited for his outstanding work as chairman of the sustaining membership drive which showed an increase in membership of 40 per cent when compared to 1963.

He was appointed chairman of the 1964 sustaining membership drive on April 1, and has already recorded a 20 per cent increase in membership.

Pleiss came to the area last July as a products engineer with Rouson Corp. in Delaware Water Gap.

He lives in East Stroudsburg with his wife, Roberta, and their 18-month old daughter.
